BEATS CRITICS, NRA CHIEF OUT WITH NEW PLAN

Reveals Code Revision
Move Before Single Word Is Spoken

JOHNSON LISTS 12 CORRECTIONS

Revision to Be Followed
By "Bigger, Better"
Compliance Drive

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—Hugh S. Johnson beat NRA's assembled critics to the gun today by suddenly unfolding a twelve-point program for revising existing codes.

Before the hundreds invited to complain could voice a single criticism, the NRA administrator announced a wide code revision would be effected, if possible, by sweeping presidential mandate.

Individual industries, Johnson told the opening session of his "field day for criticism," will be allowed modifications only if justification can be shown in public hearings.

Plans Bigger Campaign
Code revision, he added, will be followed by a bigger and better blue-ink compliance campaign—"call it what you will," he said—to make the emblem indispensable to all business.

"We are going on as we have begun," he said in a paragraph aimed at NRA's enemies, "these meetings are the first move in a closing up of our ranks for a new forward movement by NRA."

"Chance or circumstance may stop it, but you are not going to stop it or even make it falter."

Thus with a bang, the bluff and hard-talking administrator threw open sessions which will run in five simultaneous performances, day and night, until everybody who wants to present objections to the current program or complain of the codes has had at least 15 minutes to do it.

His task was a far more than only at the immediate audience but over their heads to the country itself. Into a microphone he challenged enemies, denied that NRA had fallen short of its promises, and spoke a confident claim that the industrial program will march on.

Lists Corrections
The twelve corrections, which he said, already gathered data has shown to be necessary, were:

1. A more uniform and equitable rule of price stabilization were necessary to prevent throat-cut competition with further insurance against price tripping purchasing power.

2. A more effective rule to prevent sales below costs of production.

3. Uniformity in wages and hours in industries which are competitive.

4. Uniform classification of areas for the prevailing southern wage differential.

5. Further reduction in working hours and further increase in hourly wages.

6. Protection against monopoly, oppression of small enterprise and inclusion in codes of buying regulations to protect the small fellows.

7. An improved method to secure compliance.

8. A method for financing code administration without racketeering.

9. Elimination of inconsistent or (Continued on Page 5)

The school's "Little German band" will play during the intermission while the rest of the concert program includes the overture, "Iron Count" by King, a trumpet duet, "Silver Threads Among the Gold," played by Oland Dilworth and Jack Harloff, a medley of southern melodies arranged by Hayes, the "Peter Schmolli overture" and the "Star Spangled Banner."

MERCURY SKIDS, HITS 15 BELOW

Warmer Tomorrow, Weatherman Says; Snow
Plows Kept Busy

The mercury skidded off in another wild spree here and elsewhere through the northern section of the state last night, staggering off to points reported as low as 15 below zero in the city.

In contrast to a year ago today when the lowest reading was 20 degrees above zero, the bottom mark at the sewage plant was placed at 13 below. Thermometers at Salem homes dropped to the 14 and 15-below figures.

Rising temperature was forecast for tomorrow by the weatherman. Eight snow plows have been steadily employed by the county highway department in keeping improved highways open to traffic as a result of the heavy snow. In addition to this equipment, County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk has had two plows on the roads.

These plows have had to travel the roads constantly for the reason that after traffic lanes were opened, high winds blew snow back on the highways.

The state highway department declared that between nine and 10 inches of snow covered the highways.

Oppose Minimum

CLEVELAND, Feb. 27.—Opposing the $12.50 a week minimum wage provided in a restaurant code, union waitresses will go on a strike if it is paid, said Miss Kitty Donnelly, business agent of the union.

She said they want $12 after deduction of meals and laundry bills.

RESTAURANT ASSOCIATION MEETING THURSDAY, 2:30 P. M.

METZGER HOTEL, NEW CODE
SIGNED. MANY IMPORTANT
SUBJECTS TO DISCUSS.

(By Associated Press)

LORAIN, O., Feb. 27.—A blinding snow squall along the Lake Erie shore has taken the life of Lieut. Albert J. Harmon, of the 10th observation squadron, Michigan national guard.

Twenty minutes after he left Cleveland airport for Detroit on an unofficial flight late yesterday a heavy snow storm closed in on him. He attempted to bail out from a low altitude, struck the foot-thick lake ice about 600 feet from shore, and was injured fatally when his parachute failed to function.

His plane struck the ice near him and was destroyed by fire.

Lieut. Harmon was on his way back to Detroit after bringing C. E. P. Clark, a Detroit school teacher and a colonel in the infantry reserve, to Cleveland for the National Education association convention.

Harmon was not carrying air mail, and had no connection with the air mail service.

Coast guardsmen and firemen were called, and took the flier to a hospital, where he was pronounced dead.

RUSSELL GIBBS CLUB SPEAKER

Discusses "Pruning and Spraying" Before
Garden Unit

Russell C. Gibbs of the American Laundry & Dry Cleaning company was the guest speaker at a meeting of the Salem Garden club Monday afternoon at Memorial building. He was presented by Mrs. Ward Eckstein, chairman of the program committee.

Gibbs discussed "Pruning and Spraying." He pointed out the need of studying the likes and dislikes of plants in order to be successful in growing them. "Get acquainted with the flowers and their needs," the speaker advised.

Mrs. Eckstein read a paper on "Tues." The members responded to roll call by naming and describing a flower which began with the initial of either their first or last name.

The club planned to entertain the Youngstown Garden club forum, which is comprised of clubs in this district, on May 23.

Mrs. Burt Leeper, the president, invited the members to her home for a tea at 2 p. m. Thursday, March 8. In order to be admitted to this tea the members must bring a clipping of interest to Garden club work.

Announcement was also made of a flower show, of forced bulb and winter garden, to be held at the Youngstown Garden club forum, which is comprised of clubs in this district, on May 23.

Montour R. R. Will Continue Battle

EAST LIVERPOOL, Feb. 27.—A fight against an injunction preventing dredging or blasting of Little Beaver creek will be carried to the Pennsylvania supreme court, if necessary, said attorneys for the Pittsburgh Coal company.

A temporary injunction granted to the Columbus & Pittsburgh railroad was made permanent at Beaver Falls, Pa., yesterday. Deepening of the channel is part of the Montour railroad project for rail-and-water handling of coal.

The court's ruling, however, will not affect the Montour program, attorneys said.

day At Home

COLUMBIANA, Feb. 27.—Columbiana's last surviving Civil war veteran, William Halverstadt, 90, succumbed to a long illness at his home, North Main st., Monday afternoon.

He was a member of a family which aided in the founding of the village.

He served for three years in the union army as a member of Company H, 115th Ohio Volunteer Infantry and was a member of the village's G. A. R. post, now a matter of history.

Juror Wins His Release On A Complicated Relationship

Center Township Man's Father Married
Sister of Prosecutor's Mother

Galen Bowman of Centre township, No. 1 juror in the trial of James LaFatch and Joseph Jambol, Akron youths charged with robbery of a Salem drug store, Monday afternoon petitioned Judge W. F. Jones to be allowed to withdraw from the jury.

And here's the reason that Bowman gave as the basis for his request.

A brother of his father married a sister of the mother of Prosecutor George LaFerty and he feared this relationship might prejudice him.

To save the time of determining the relationship between Bowman and the prosecutor, Judge Jones excused the juror.

Hearing of evidence was started in common pleas court, Lisbon, at 11 a. m. today.

P. R. R. TRAIN DROPS OFF BRIDGE IN PITTSBURGH; 25 IN HOSPITALS

7 Tragedies In Four Days Take Big Toll

Disasters In the Air and Aground Take More
Than 85 Lives

(By Associated Press)

Four days of catastrophe aloft and aground have brought sudden death to at least 85 people in the United States.

Train wrecks, plane crashes, bus smash-ups, lethal carbon monoxide—and above all the fury of winter storms—have swelled the grisly toll.

Seven Major Tragedies
In that span—Friday, Saturday, Sunday and Monday—these major tragedies have shocked the country.

Air liner crashed near Salt Lake City late Friday—8 dead.

Train wrecked at Pittsburgh, last night—7 to 10 dead.

Train wrecked at Delphos, O., yesterday—3 dead.

Tornadoes in the deep south, Sunday—20 dead.

Blizzard swept north and east, Sunday, Monday—30 dead.

Bus wrecker near Aguila, Ariz., Saturday—6 dead.

Coal gas asphyxiated Dartmouth students, Sunday—9 dead.

Several less serious accidents increased the total. Two men died in Tampa, Fla., yesterday trying to fly an obsolete plane. Another crashing craft carried a national guard lieutenant to his death in a snowstorm near Lorain, O., yesterday. A freight truck and a passenger bus smashed together in blinding snow Saturday near Bethel, Kas., killing three.

A New York bound Pennsylvania train, plunging down an embankment last night, wrote climax to the four days of disasters. Besides those killed, about 40 were injured.

Below Zero Again
Mercury plunging toward zero struck the northeast today as it struggled, in many cases in vain, to dig out of a 36-hour snow-fall which followed another record-breaking blizzard that occurred last week.

The fine, powdery snow ceased falling in most sections last night, but trains and highway traffic still moved haltingly today.

Many communities were isolated by high drifts, especially in New England. Food shortage grew more severe in some Long Island villages. Eight persons were killed by the storm directly or indirectly, in the (Continued on Page 5)

CWA REDUCED, WAGES LOWERED

County's Quota Is Put
At 1,874 In Order
From Henderson

Another reduction in Columbiana county's CWA employment quota and a lower wage scale, both to go into effect Friday, were ordered today by State Chairman F. D. Henderson, Columbus.

The county's quota was reduced from 2,095 workers to 1,874, almost 1,000 under the original quota in effect two weeks ago.

The new and lower wage schedule affects workers in five groups. Group 1 includes skilled workers of some 75 classifications, groups 2, 3 and 4 include semi-skilled workers of more than 50 classifications and group 5 affects common laborers.

The county's wage scale, by groups, follows:

Group one, $1; group two, 75 cents; group three, 65; group four, 55, and group five, 40.

The old rate for skilled workers was a maximum of $1.20 an hour, and the minimum for various types of semi-skilled workers ranged from 65 cents to $1 an hour, while the minimum for common labor was 50 cents an hour.

The lower wage scale was also to be placed in effect in Stark county.

The scale there follows:

Group one, 85 cents; group two, 70; group three, 65; group four, 60, group five, 45.

Railroad Officials Unable to Determine Cause of Tragedy; Part of Business Building Torn Away

ENGINEER AND FIREMAN MISSING

F. R. Dravo, Millionaire Contracting Company Head, Among Dead; Work of Identification Is Difficult

(By Associated Press)

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 27.—An eighth body was discovered today in the wreckage of the Akron-Pittsburgh train. Workmen believed it to be either that of the engineer or fireman but said it would be some time before the body could be removed for identification.

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 27.—With seven bodies removed from the wreckage of an Akron-Pittsburgh train, workmen today ystard lifting the locomotive in a search for the missing engineer and fireman, also believed dead.

Besides the dead, 40 persons were injured last night as the train dropped from a bridge on the north side to a street several feet below, wrecking a signal tower and tearing away part of a business building.

Twenty-five are still in hospitals.

Cause Undetermined
Railroad officers say they do not know the cause of the wreck.

The engineer of the train was W. M. Shaw of New Castle, Pa., and O. C. Douthitt, of Youngstown, O., was the fireman. Early reports to officials were the men might have escaped.

Next to last to be removed was the body of F. R. Dravo, millionaire contracting company head who had boarded the train only 30 minutes before on a trip to Washington, D. C.

The other identified dead:
David A. Ducharme, 50, of Ansonia, Conn., and Akron, O.
Clarence J. Mayer, 45, of Ingram, Pa., a meat market owner.
Mrs. W. Miller Wardrop of Pittsburgh, wife of a Pennsylvania Railroad official.
Thomas Jeffrey, Negro, Youngstown, O.

Bodies of a Negro and a white woman are unidentified.

70 Passengers on Train
Railroad officials said about 70 passengers were on the train. Two Pullman cars were to have been transferred to a New York express and few of these passengers were hurt. Most of the uninjured continued east on later trains.

Wrecking crews, aided by a huge crane, worked through the night and into

SHADES OF THE PAST

Baseball has created many a hero, but few John McGraws. For three decades he was an integral part of baseball—a maker of baseball heroes. His value to the national sport must be reckoned in terms of what he added to it, not in terms of what he got back from it.

Some of his ideas about baseball may have been wrong. But they worked in his time, and they still are good enough to be the patterns of many a manager who was lying in his cradle when McGraw was indulging himself in outbursts of temper. Those outbursts probably did more to make him one of the great figures of the big leagues than any other single thing in his makeup.

They gave him a precious distinction—color, the thing which distinguishes a Babe Ruth from a Jimmy Fox, making one priceless and the other merely valuable. They gave him as manager a tremendous advantage over the men under him. He was the great John J. McGraw and his word was law.

While it remained law, the New York Giants never had reason to doubt the wisdom of retaining McGraw year after year while other managers came and went. He was dictatorial, sometimes unreasonable and always assertive, but he had something behind his bluster that counted. He knew baseball, he knew baseball players and he understood the fundamentals of providing entertainment. It is significant that he was interested deeply in the theater. He grasped the relation between entertainment on a stage and entertainment on a baseball diamond.

Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis has summed up McGraw's qualities in two sentences: "John McGraw was something more than the winner of 10 pennants and many world series. He was emblematic of the fire and dash that belong to the national game." Shades of the past troop up now to carry him away. He helped to make life more pleasant for his generation.

AVIATION'S OWN DEPRESSION

Thousands of hours of safe flying and years of development will be required to enable aviation to overcome the disastrous publicity it has received in the last few days. Numberless potential patrons of air transportation have been frightened.

Only one accident involved a plane carrying commercial passengers, yet the death of its eight occupants is a greater setback to confidence than could be estimated. They were being transported in an ultra-modern ship over a regular commercial route. They had all the safety advantages which were denied to the unfortunate army pilots who flew to death on mail routes. It has not been entirely because of their equipment that the army men are finding it hazardous to fly the mail. Aviation has much to do before it can know with certainty that the probability of accident has become merely the possibility.

Commercial transportation by air has been having its own depression. During the fat years of the last decade, it was trying to sell its services to a skeptical public. Just when it was beginning to be encouraged, the end of the boom obliterated its brightening prospects. Now, after continuous improvement of service through the depression years, a wave of bad publicity places a restraining hand on people who eventually will feel as safe in the air as they do now on the ground.

Despite unfavorable impressions made by recurrent disasters, aviation already has established an amazing record of safety on a basis of passenger fatalities for miles traveled. Its sponsors would like to think that flying is safer than it is. Skeptics, on the contrary, think it is more dangerous than it is. Somewhere between the two viewpoints is the common ground on which aviation's future is being built. Transportation by air never will be perfectly safe. Neither will transportation on the ground. Eight persons on an air transport have been killed. Half a dozen army pilots have been ordered to their death in planes unequipped for the kind of service demanded of them. But on the ground during the same length of time the automobile, so familiar that nearly everybody can drive one, has been taking its toll, too.

CAUTION.

The nine Dartmouth college students who died by suffocation in a fraternity house with a faulty heating plant make a tragic reminder of a common danger whose existence often is overlooked. Every house with its own furnace is a potential lethal chamber.

The danger is virtually the same as that from automobile fumes. Although death from carbon monoxide has become a familiar cause, there probably are many people unaware that the gas can be generated in an ordinary furnace as well as an automobile. Fortunately, such accidents are rare, but the Dartmouth tragedy should serve as a caution to everyone entrusted with the operation of a furnace.

THE STARS SAY

For Wednesday, February 28

A lively, progressive and propitious state of affairs is presaged by the predominant planetary configurations. There is sign of important change with big business pending if not brought to highly fruitful issues. Friendly interest and co-operation from those in places of prestige and power may be sought with confidence. But tact and diplomacy are enjoined, since there is shown a tendency to ready speech and impetuosity.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year of much profit and progress, with important change and the support and friendship of those in high places. A tendency for ready speech and impulsive judgments should be curbed.

A child born on this day may have ready wit, much skill and the spirit to adventure into untried fields or original investigations.

O. O. McINTYRE
NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK, Feb. 27—Not in many years has the metropolis so set aside its anxieties to frolic as it has this winter. Everywhere a rustle of lingerie, the shine of silk, the crepitant crackle of stiff white shirts. And other galantries of life from the top drawer.

The popular figures of the day are those who can, like the buxom Elsa Maxwell, whip life into a sudden froth. Dressmaking ateliers have driven the sheriffs from the door-steps. And in the sudden White Tie Era the dinner jacket has become extinct.

Almost every big ballroom is filled nightly. Smart dining rooms are an opening chapter from an Oppenheim. And a season that once diminuendoes to six stage plays now has 34 with theatrical ticket agencies tripling their staffs. There are sundry explanations.

Some say repeal. Others the buoyancy of a safe bound out of the depression. While the more lugubrious chant it is the well known fiddling while another Rome burns and France to the excess of hysterical gaily preceding France's plunge to new disaster. The final fling!

Charles Laughton, deserting the cinema at the peak of his American career, is filling London's "Old Vic" in a repertoire of Shakespeare, acting a month for what Hollywood paid him a day. New York's nearest approach to "Old Vic" was the Civic Repertory, a sort of compromise between a theatre and a club. "Old Vic" has preserved audience affection through every vicissitude. When bombs were dropping around Waterloo station, crowds at "Old Vic" were cheering "Macbeth."

I once went to "Old Vic" with Watterson Rothacker. Above us curved the gallery packed with men, women and children who had paid five pence to hear Aida. They were artisans, labourers and "clerks" and their wives. It was an eddy of the submerged snatching desperately for something fine and soothing higher up.

The most auspicious theatrical flop of the season was George Abbott's self appearance in "John Brown." In one despairing gasp it opened and closed the same night. Abbott is a sterling actor, the play was magnificently mounted and cast. But again proved the play's the thing.

One of New York's bachelors, whose life has been spent in globe trots, recently settled down to a Sutton Place apartment. In showing a friend through his new home, he pointed to an enormous acre-wide bed. "That," he said, "is to get even with all the Pullman and steamer berths."

Harry Silvey and I turned into the Bowery shortly after midnight. The free flops were filled to capacity and the overflow bivouacked in doorways or sprawled along the curbs near embers of scattered gutter fires, all huddled together for warmth. There was a flash-back to a vivid etching in a fey little volume of Missouri childhood, troops rolled in their cloaks beside dead fires, sleeping before battle. Only their battle was Tomorrow!

Among fixations in Broadway's unceasing change remains Jimmy Cunningham, who has stood nightly on the north-west corner of Broadway and 50th street for 25 years. It would be desolating to range through the glittering canyon and not see the grey-haired friendly man who, in the wind, snow and rain, has stood there from 9 until 11 each night, greeting old friends, discussing baseball scores, murmuring sudden wisdoms and responding to the impulses of the cracker-barrel sitter back yonder. He is one of the few Broadway has seasoned but never toughened. The gods, capricious in their gifts, decreed Jimmy should have no particular ambitions save to brighten and sweeten his little corner. At 11 he returns to his rooming house fringing Madison Square. Sometimes we think of Jimmy as the most supremely happy fellow in all the town.

This time of year magazines print yips about Spring. Here are a pair of contrasts in a quick roll of the dice. Spring in the city—a hurdy gurdy. Spring in the small town—selling enough paper flour sacks to buy a raw coconut from the first April shipment.

OUR READERS

ASSAULTS COUNCIL

Editor, The News:

I was interested in what the two contributors to "Our Readers" column had to say in yesterday's paper because they expressed what has been on my mind, and what I have heard a great many others say.

Norman Phillips was elected mayor because the voters thought he had ability and was better fitted mentally for the office than his opponent. He promised to work for an economical administration and started in to keep that promise, but a set of councilmen who are more interested in drawing their money and playing peanut politics than in serving the people, have been trying to block him at every turn. As a taxpayer, I think it is about time council got down to business and quit bothering about an official who is responsible to the people as a whole, and not to council.

The mayor has been putting in enough time to take care of his duties, and that is all the people expect. He is capable of doing more in a few hours than other mayors did in a whole week. That's the kind of a mayor taxpayers have been playing for—one who knows what it's all about and can get things done.

Isn't it time we had a man of ability as mayor? We have had enough of those who merely put in their time. Mayor Phillips has the capacity and good judgment to give a clean, honest, business-like administration and that is what he is trying to do. Let the councilmen show some cooperation and some constructive work of their own. They act like a bunch of spoiled children. The people have a right to expect more of grown men than they have shown. Asthma Is Curable
THERE IS a popular belief that asthma is an incurable affliction. This is not the fact, but undoubtedly it has led many sufferers from this affliction to give up all hope of complete recovery. It is true, too, that for many years little was known concerning this disease and little could be offered in the way of cure.

I am glad to say that only recently, important discoveries have been made in the prevention as well as cure of this annoying and really disabling disorder. In fact, many victims of asthma have been entirely cured and others have been greatly relieved from the sufferings of repeated attacks and the severity of the spasms.

This has all been made possible by the development of the so-called "sensitivity tests." Certain types of asthma are caused by sensitivity to a pollen, food substance or clothing. In such cases when the exciting cause is discovered and removed, cure is possible.

Find Offending Substance
By means of these sensitivity tests, it is possible to determine just what particular substance it is to which the sufferer is sensitive. When this is found and the offending substance can be removed, cure is effected. In some instances success has been attained by the use of a vaccine made from the irritating substance. It acts by doing away with or lessening the sensitivity. Within recent years many cases of asthma have been traced to sources of infection within the body. For example, diseased and infected nasal sinuses, tonsils, adenoids, appendix or gall bladder may be the underlying cause of the symptoms and when removed relief is obtained.

Strain On the Heart
Every sufferer from asthma should have a complete physical examination. This will reveal any physical defects and locate the points of infection. The examination is not complete unless it includes a test of the urine, blood, sputum and an X-ray of the lungs.

Then the sensitivity tests should be made. I cannot overemphasize the importance of this part of the program. I believe that without these tests the victim of asthma can have little hope for relief.

Bear in mind that asthma is a serious disease and must never be neglected. Continued attacks place too great a burden on the heart and lungs. In many an unrelieved case the sufferer becomes stricken with a diseased heart and if proper measures are not taken, this may prove to be exceedingly serious. In addition, the general health of the individual is undermined, and he becomes more susceptible to the various infectious diseases.

HOME MAKING HELPS

By Wanda Barton

Your Home Refrigerator

THE AUTOMATIC ice box becomes more and more efficient. The new models are as different from the initial refrigerators as are the old cars from modern automobiles. In the early refrigerators, the fact that artificial ice could be quickly made seemed to be the principal attraction. But now the ice making is just incidental to the machine. It is the food storage facilities that count, as well as the provision for making mousies and other frozen delicacies. If your model is a very early one, you might find it worth while to trade it in for a new one, so different and delightful are these modern marvels.

New Features

New methods of insulation feature most of the new makes. There are rounded corners that make for greater efficiency in cleaning. There are storage trays of various types for special foods and for dehydrating. A compact arrangement makes it possible to give more storage space. There are shelves that slide out so that there need be no more fumbling in the cold recesses of the chest, and these are adjustable up or down. One machine has a foot pedal for opening the door so that both hands are free to carry dishes, and many of the new models on when the door is opened and turn off when it is closed.

Temperature Controls

In the freezing units, trays are more numerous, with a correspondingly larger ice cube capacity. Then, too, there are simple lever arrangements to release frozen trays, and there are controls for different temperatures, one having as many as seven freezing speeds. Defrosting has become a much simpler procedure than it used to be. One simply turns a dial or throws a switch and the thawing cut process sets in.

Automatic Defrosting

When defrosting takes place in the new machines it is effected without raising the temperature of the storage compartment above the safety mark. Then there is an automatic defrosting control that restores normal operation after the coils are clear, so that as little cold as possible is lost. On another machine the coils are set in the center of the automatic compartment so that bottles can be stored on either side, thus making sure of really cold contents. Nice for summer soft drinks.

In all the new models, endeavor has been made to still further reduce operating costs. This together with greater storage facilities makes the automatic ice box, be it gas or electric, a most important part of the kitchen equipment. If you are satisfied with an older model, add to its usefulness by installing it with rubber ice cube trays, a dehydrating device and some of the new shelves made of flat steel ribbons, are only some of the gadgets made for still further modernizing that most modern of inventions that has been such a boon to the housekeeper.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Helped by a strong rally in the silver market, wheat rose late today to almost 2 cents a bushel above yesterday's finish.

The upturn of wheat prices appeared to be partly due to the fact that the wheat market had been on the downgrade for a week and had worked into an oversold condition. At today's minimum prices, wheat was off 4 1/4 cents from last week's top figures.

Explains War Vet's Headache

An X-ray photo of the head of James P. Sherry, of Rochester, N. Y., showing the knife blade (arrow) that had been embedded in his skull since the World War, all unknown to him. Sherry had been the victim of continual headaches. It is believed the knife blade was driven into his head by a bursting shell during the war. Being red-hot, it cauterized the wound and went undetected for 16 years.

conflicting provisions in codes. 10. Adequate labor and consumer representation on the authorities. 11. Uniform government representation on the authorities. 12. Wider use within code groups of mechanism for settling labor disputes.

May Be More Later—Other needs for correction exist, he said, but there are the headline reforms. He promised that anything else developed by the criticism sessions would be considered along with the twelve points in next week's assembly of code authorities.

"It is our purpose to determine, in the code conference," he said, "the opinion in codified industries, as to how many of these improvements we can put into effect by general presidential rulings, leaving to each industry the opportunity to show why the application of such rulings can not, or ought not to, be applied to it, or to what extent such rulings ought to be modified or stayed. It is our plan to move into this corrective process just as soon as the code conference is finished."

This sweeping presentation was followed up by a declaration that neither meeting was to be "a gesture or a kind of pep meeting."

"They are both in deadly earnest and the purpose of them is to mop up the errors, shortcomings and mistakes of the rapid progress of codification, which, measured in these figures of employment has already covered about 90 per cent of American industry and which in a relatively short time will have covered it all."

Treasurer and Auditor Offices Are Moved Today

LISBON, Feb. 27.—Offices of County Auditor John H. Irwin County Treasurer John C. Litty, Prosecuting Attorney George L. Lafferty and the county commissioners were removed today from the court house to the Firestone buildings, southwest corner of South Beaver st. and Lincoln Way.

This removal also included the office of the tax division, which is a part of the auditor's office, the dog license and automobile license division.

Removal of these offices clears the court house of all official county business.

The offices of Auditor Irwin and Treasurer Litty will be located on the street floor of the Firestone building, formerly occupied by the Binsley Clothing Co. Vacant apartment suites on the second floor entrance to which is on South Beaver st. will be occupied by all other division offices.

This removal has resulted in three shifts of CWA workers being employed in the reconstruction of the court house. These men, including 30 carpenters and others are working eight-hour shifts.

Weather has done little to hold back the reconstruction program. Interior walls have been demolished, and old lumber has been removed.

CARNERA-LOUGHRAN TITLE MIX PREDICTED AS FINANCIAL FLOP

RANK QUAKERS AMONG LEADING TITLE THREATS

Face Tough Opposition In Battle with Youngstown Quintet Tonight

The battle for basketball supremacy of the Northeastern Ohio district opens tonight at the Youngstown East gymnasium, Youngstown, with Salem's strong quintet opposing the East squad in the inaugural battle at 7:30.

Outcome Uncertain

Ranked as one of the outstanding title threats of the competition, Salem is conceded a big edge over the former but those who have watched the Quakers perform sensationally in one game then drop to the mediocre in the next are extremely doubtful over the outcome of the clash. The Brown-men haven't been overly brilliant in contests on foreign courts this season and, in facing the East five on its home court, will in all probability be given a tough battle.

Another Columbiana county quintet, representing East Palestine High, a team that holds an eight-point decision over Salem's scholastics, also swings into action tonight as it tackles a formidable Youngstown Rayen foe. This contest looms as one of the outstanding plays of the tournament with the final result a tossup for both teams are strong and have fine records to their credit for the current season.

The Rayen-Palestine battle is slated at 8:30.

10 Players Make Trip

Coch Herb Brown will take a squad of ten players to the tournament but just what combination of five he will start is a matter of conjecture. Making the trip will be Wayne Siding, John Pukalski, Charlie McClellan, Earl Zelle, Jackie Mullins, Lawrence Kaercher, Carroll Beck, Charles Palmer, Dick Scullion and Homer Veon.

A victory for the Quakers will automatically advance them into the second round of play for a battle at 7 p. m. tomorrow against Campbell Memorial. Campbell defeated East, 28-22, during the regular case season and has compiled a good record in wins.

PRIMO DEFENDS FISTIC HONORS IN MIAMI BOUT

New Low In Receipts Expected; Rivals Wind Up Training

BY EDWARD J. NEIL

Associated Press Sports Writer

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 27—The artistic success of Primo Carnera's heavyweight title defense against Tommy Loughran amid a background of palms seems assured, regardless of the outcome, but from a financial standpoint the receipts tomorrow night probably will fade all the way back to the low records of boxing's dark ages.

As the huge champion from Italy and Loughran, his veteran challenger, were content today with light exercises and rest, the training campaign over, it became apparent from lack of interest that the match will not draw more than $75,000.

Falls To New Low

Not since Tex Rickard came out the far west years ago to set new records for fight receipts, has the heavyweight championship fight business fallen to such low financial state. In fact the last heavyweight title match that dropped below $75,000 in receipts was Jim Corbett's failure to regain his crown from Jim Jeffries in 1903.

Since that far gone day heavyweight championships grew to be synonymous with millions. At the height of Rickard's career—and the boom days—Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney drew $1,895,733 in their first match in Philadelphia in 1926 and the top gate of all boxing, $2,638,660 for their return match in Chicago the next year. Carnera, the present champion, is formally in bankruptcy.

Despite the fact that Miami is jammed with visitors, the sun is shining, and Loughran has increased his status as a challenger considerably by his show of condition and ability in training, tickets have sold slowly. It would take an amazing run on the box office to bring the gate up to $100,000.

Primo 3-1 Favorite

Odds on Carnera to retain his championship, perhaps by an early knockout, still hold at 3 to 1, and a few wagers have been made with the titleholder a favorite as high as 5 to 1, a situation which has the veterans shaking their heads and analyzing sharply the chances of a

RUMORS SWIRL ABOUT VIENNA

Expiration Date of Nazi Ultimatum Is Drawing Near

BY WADE WERNER.

Associated Press Foreign Staff. (Copyright, 1934, by The Associated Press.)

VIENNA, Feb. 27.—Unhappy Austria floundered knee-deep in rumors today as the expiration date of the Nazi ultimatum to Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss drew near.

These whispers of something just around the corner ranged from war to peace; from immediate restoration of a monarchy to attempts on the life of Vice Chancellor Emil Fey.

In close pursuit of reports, repeatedly denied, of ominous troop concentrations on the Austro-German frontier were equally urgent and equally unverified reports that an Austro-German agreement already had been negotiated.

This agreement, rumors had it, was ready to be announced within the next 24 hours.

In a broadcast February 19, Habicht bluntly gave Dollfuss until February 28 to take the Nazis into the government. He threatened a renewed "fight" if Dollfuss failed to come to terms.

The Austrian government took little note of the ultimatum, officially at least.

Amid the Austro-German rumors, others persisted in circulating to the effect that Archduke Otto, claimant to the Austrian throne, would be brought to Vienna. Fascist Heimwehr troops were rumored to have gone to the Swiss border to meet him.

Chancellor Dollfuss, the Hapsburg family and Prince Von Starhemberg, Heimwehr leader, were heard at a Monarchist mass meeting last night. Speakers demanded the eventual restoration of the throne.

Approval of Flood Control Is Asked

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., Feb. 27.—With the possibility of a general assessment against all counties in the district eliminated, the Muskingum watershed conservancy court again will be asked to approve the $34,500,000 flood control project of the district, Robert N. Wilkin, attorney for the district said.

The court composed of 16 common pleas judges, recently declined to approve the district's contract with the public works administration on the ground it might be impossible to borrow $500,000 from the government on warrants without making the general assessment against the counties.

Legal Holdup Is New Spanish Custom

Spain, in common with almost every other country in the world, has a custom of "legal holdups." Here is a scene in Bilbao as police searched citizens in the streets after one of the periodic flare-ups of rioting and disorder being attributed to "the" police. The recent success of Conservatives at the polls is said to have increased unrest.

Today

A Review of the Day's News

By Arthur Brisbane

JOHN J. McGRAW, baseball player of renown, is dead, only 60.

A fiery baseball fighting man, McGraw won victories in the line of throwing a ball, hitting it with a club and running around bases. Every newspaper praises him on its front page and he is entitled to the glory.

He knew what interested the people.

FU-YI once heir to the throne of China, cast aside by China's republic, now chosen to be Japan's dummy emperor of Manchukuo, whence his ancestors came, passed his twenty-eighth birthday.

He did not, as is done in New York, "throw a big party," but spent the day in meditation, prayer and fasting. He hoped thereby to please the different gods—there is a considerable assortment of them—interesting to inhabitants of his new domain.

He becomes Manchukuo emperor, which means the intelligently chosen pawn of Japan in its program of expansion, on March 1. Until then he will go through "a process of purification."

WHILE the young emperor prayed thousands of detectives hunted through the city of Hsinking, looking for anybody "planning to assassinate the future sovereign."

Prayer, fasting and meditation can do much, and Fu-Yi will need all that they can do.

He himself selected the various rites of purification and enthronement, dating back 3,000 years.

GREAT BRITAIN will again remind Uncle Sam that the "Little America" which Rear Admiral Byrd is exploring and mapping out really belongs to England.

"Little America," says England, is part of three large sectors around the south pole that belongs to Britain because she saw them first.

There will be no war about it, probably, because the poles, as they shift, move slowly. Our north and south poles require 17,000 years to make a complete sweep of the heavens, and the day is far off when today's south and the north poles will be part of a warm climate, with other spots on the earth, as north and south poles, taking their places.

Before the thousand years have passed, the British empire certainly, and the United States probably, will have ceased to exist under their present management and ideas.

HOWEVER, there might be gold, and there surely is oil beneath those cold lands, deposited there in ancient days of heat.

Mr. Rockefeller's organization has already located oil wells within the arctic circle although it is not thinking of laying pipelines yet.

British diplomacy, like that of the Vatican, looks far ahead.

Rules On Relief

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 27.—Proceeds from bonds issued against selective sales taxes, utility excise taxes and general property taxes may be used by county, including municipalities, Attorney General Bricker ruled.

$25 For Bowman

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 27.—Sheriff I. J. Jackson, of Iuka, Miss., has offered a reward of $25 for the arrest of Neal Bowman, fugitive from the Lima hospital for the criminal insane.

Bowman is charged in Mississippi with highway robbery with firearms, a crime punishable by death.

Plan Not Sound

WASHINGTON, C. H. O., Feb. 27.—The public works administration has declined to finance a $155,000 sanitary sewer project here on the ground the plan for financing is not sound.

The city has until March 31 to ask for a rehearing. Develop the profitable habit of reading all advertisements in The News every night.

Federal School Help, Broader Tax Base Suggested

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND, Feb. 27.—Federal aid for schools, administered by the states, and a broadening of the tax base for school support today came under consideration of the nation's school superintendents.

The National Education association's department of superintendence received from nine sub-committees a summarized report declaring federal aid was "necessary and inevitable."

"Concentration of wealth and industry have created conditions which make it impossible to support schools from a limited local tax base," the report said.

Referring to the rate case before the state utilities commission, the report said:

"Reference has been made in annual reports of the last several years to the inquiry of the public utilities commission of Ohio into the company's rates for service."

"On January 16, 1934, the commission issued its opinion and finding and ordered the company to repay to its subscribers and patrons a claimed excess net income in the amount of $13,289,172 for the years 1925 to 1932, inclusive. For the year 1933 the commission stated that it had found no excess earnings."

"The decision was participated in by two of the commissioners, the third commissioner, who is the chairman, dissenting."

"The majority decision which in the view of the company is unfair and unsound, both in method and result, must be contested."

"The company's total operating revenues for 1933 were $32,718,481, a decrease from the previous year of $4,335,267. Total operating expenses decreased $3,625,047 to $22,000,495."

UNCLE SAM CONVICTED RALPH, the elder brother of Scarface Alphonse Capone, of income tax evasion, and charged him with two years and five months and $10,000.

Ralph was sentenced on June 16, 1933, to serve three years, but he became a "model prisoner" and was given time off for good behavior. Prison officials were advised his fine would be paid today and Ralph made preparations to leave secretly with friends.

U. S. Aid Is Sought For Landscaping of State Route 7

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 27.—Plans for two highway beautification projects on state route 7, Ohio River road, in northeastern Ohio, have been submitted to the state for approval. It is proposed that federal funds be used on the jobs.

One project starts at the extreme northern end of the route and runs southward a little less than 10 miles. The second is for two miles north of East Liverpool.

Dallas Dupre, landscaping engineer for the state highway department, said he was hopeful of landscaping at least the two jobs already suggested but indicated that it was improbable that other work would be done on the route due to the topography and the lack of sufficient right-of-way.

Vines and shrubs will be planted if the federal government approves the appropriations, for the purpose of beautifying the roadway and eliminating soil erosion in the cut. Grass will be sown on the berms.

Considerable agitation has been underway for some time for beautifying most of the highway which has been set aside as the "road to remembrance" of Ohio's dead.

Tale OF TWO CITIZENS

TWO men worked in the same office. One was an officer, making $8,500 a year. The other was a clerk working for $2,080 a year.

The officer was always complaining, "I'm broke." But you never heard any such complaint from the clerk.

It was the painful habit of the officer to live beyond his income. It was the cheerful habit of the clerk to spend a little less than he earned—and to add a small amount to his Savings Account every month.

It is often true, we find, that a man capable of earning considerable money will make a dismal failure of its management.

But we have far more examples of men and women who know how to handle their funds wisely and well. In fact, every depositor who has a Savings Account in this bank must be, and is, a good manager of money.
